

COIPA CAPITAL

COIPA enter in the field of the Artisanal Mining, to give the local communities more comfort security, education and above all in health care centers, potable and working water, in Artisanal Mining localities. to improve the social sphere.

Handcrafted gold mines on the African continent represent the basic mining sector for the production and processing of gold and other precious materials. Artisan extraction accounts for 85% of the total gold produced.

Artisanal extraction is defined as a non-mechanized extraction operation, mainly manual and with mechanical instruments.

COIPA, wants to create a new era of extraction of gold in a traditional way throughout the African continent with new technologies and new investments in the socio-economic sector trying to implement a sustainable business policy, with low environmental impact and with the maximum possible impact on the well-being of local populations.

COIPA believes that its success would not be full and complete if it did not participate in building a better world: a world full of freedom of choices and opportunities, which opens its doors to an economy of progress, in which everyone can share success and results.

For this reason, focusing mainly on developing countries, COIPA's entrepreneurial activity is closely correlated with cooperation in projects to improve the quality of life in the intervention areas, through the allocation of part of the profit realized there, as well as with direct use of industrial know-how and organizational resources.

In Africa, COIPA's commitment is mainly focused on the construction of primary infrastructures and on social and health advances. In particular, hygiene and prophylaxis activities, prevention, diagnosis and treatment of diseases, communication routes, water networks, primary education, social housing, professional training of local workers. COIPA participates in development and cooperation projects with associations, institutions, public and private institutions.

Artisanal extraction has proven to be a primary source of employment for all those seeking work in various parts of the African continent and who are at a disadvantage. The number of people entering this sector is constantly increasing so it represents an excellent opportunity for.

COIPA has decided to enter the artisanal mining sector, embracing these commitments, trying to give local communities more security, education, health centers, drinking water and above all work.

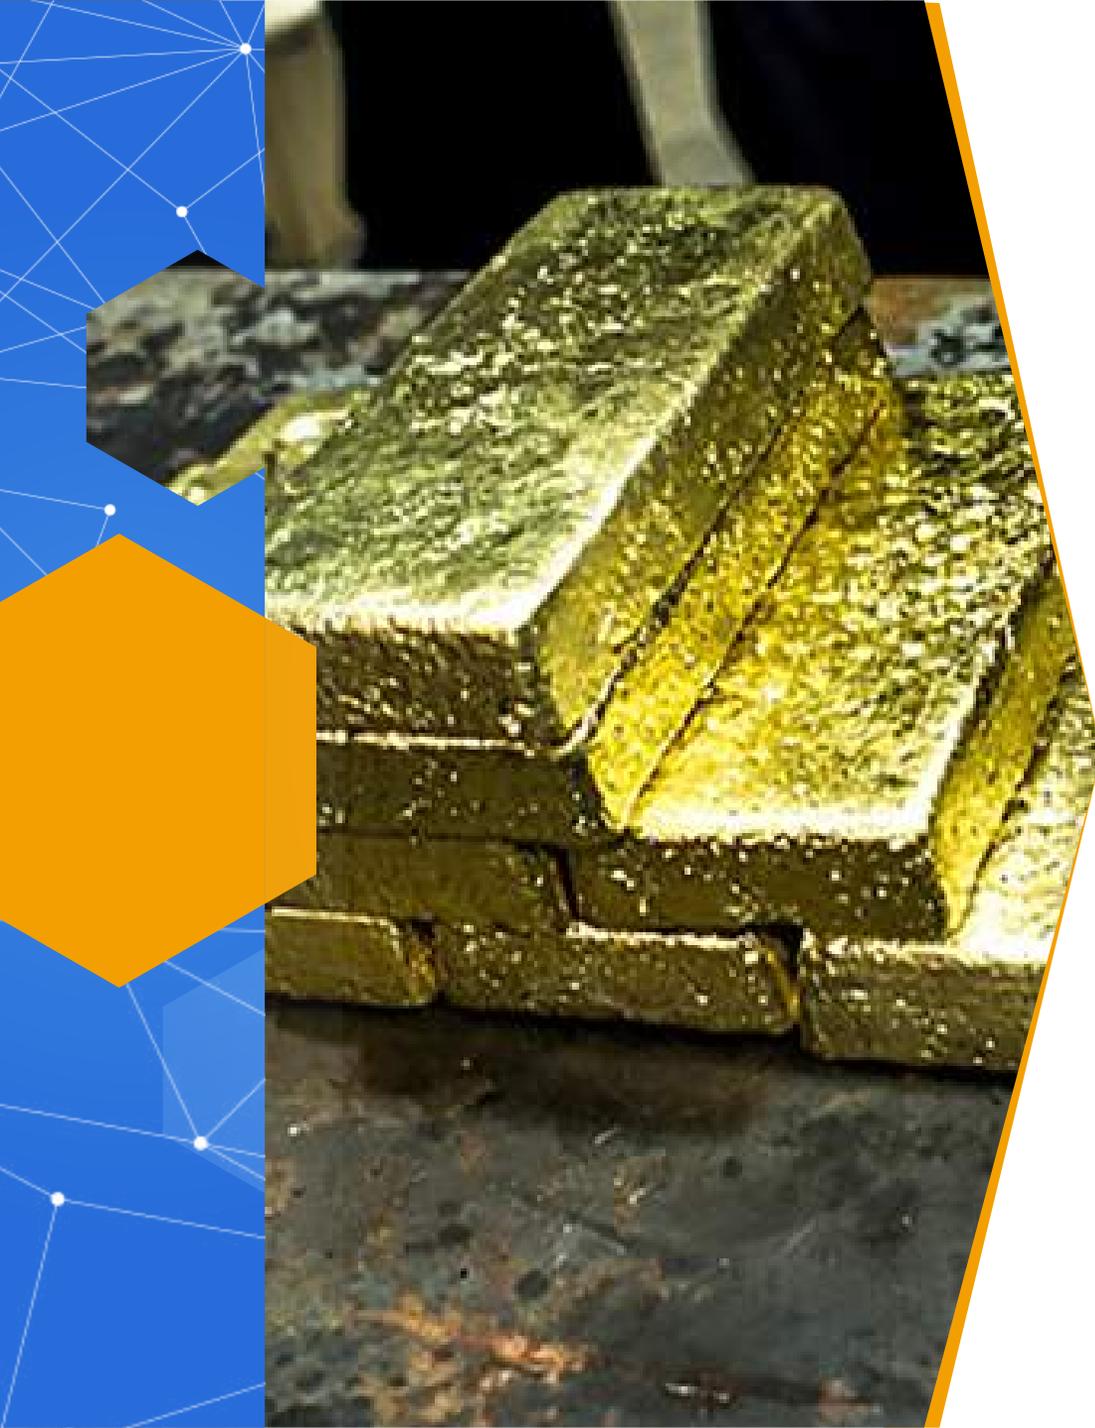

According to the international humanitarian organization Cordaid, the extraction of gold and other precious minerals on the African continent in the 2010-2018 period has been estimated at thousands of tons. This has produced millions of dollars in profits by allowing many people living on this job to reach a level of well-being above the local average.

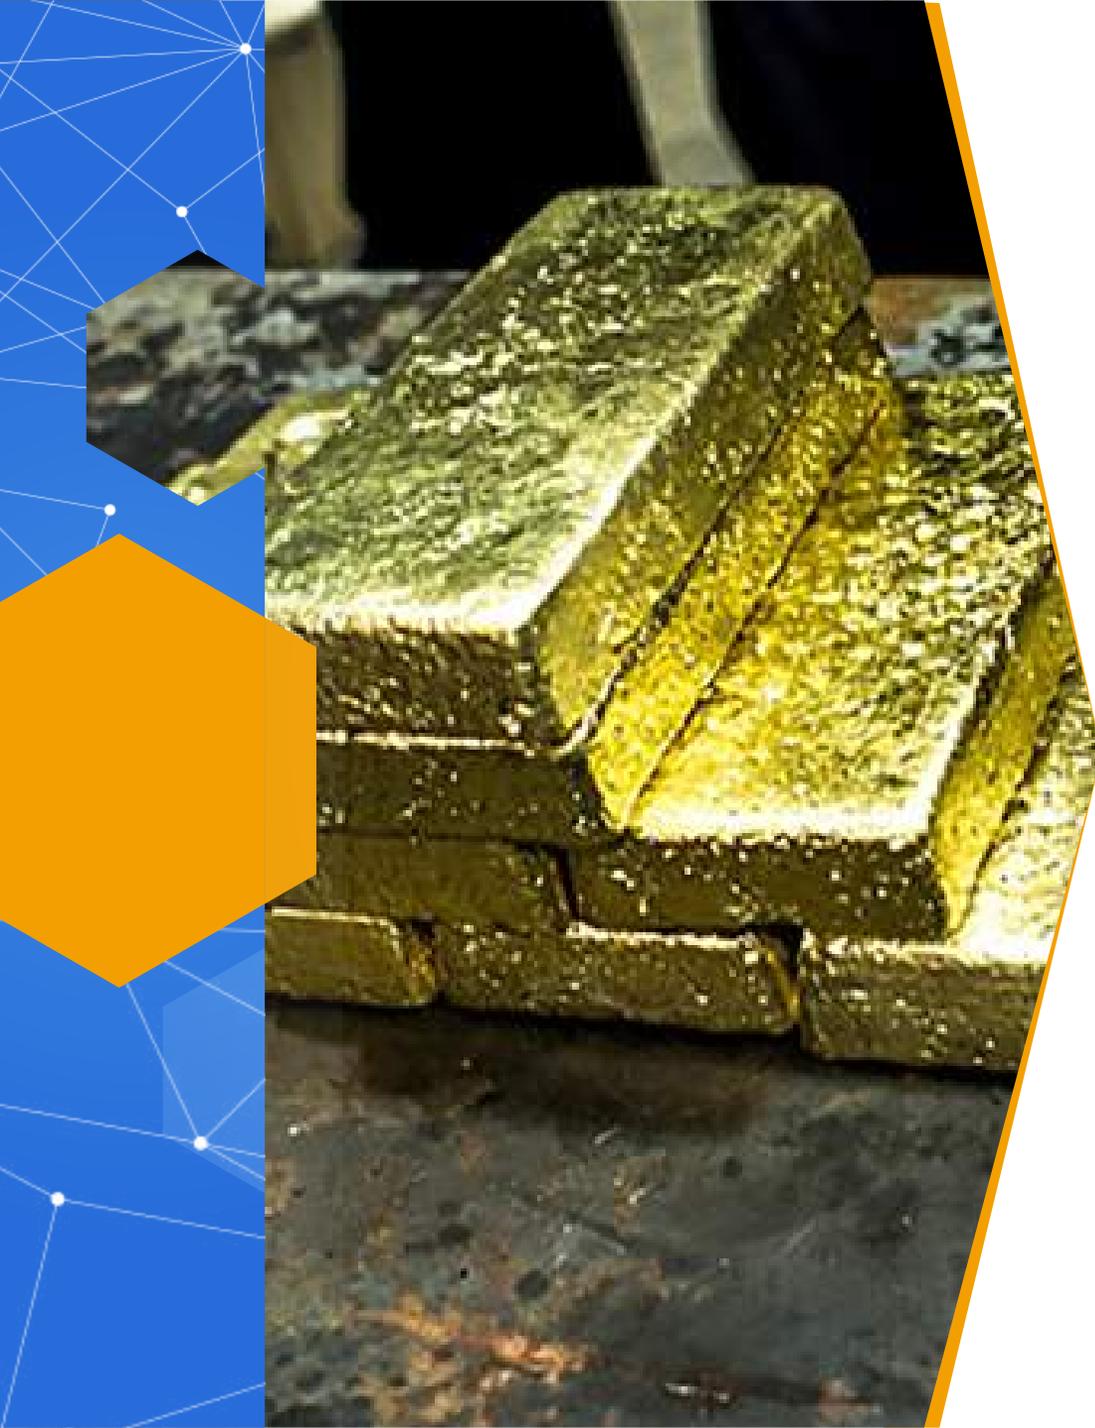

COIPA is involved in various countries of the African continent, such as Cameroon, South Sudan, and others in the process of defining contracts for mining concessions, with great concentration in Central Equatoria, Eastern Equatoria, Mardi State, practically all over the country), all with good quality gold.

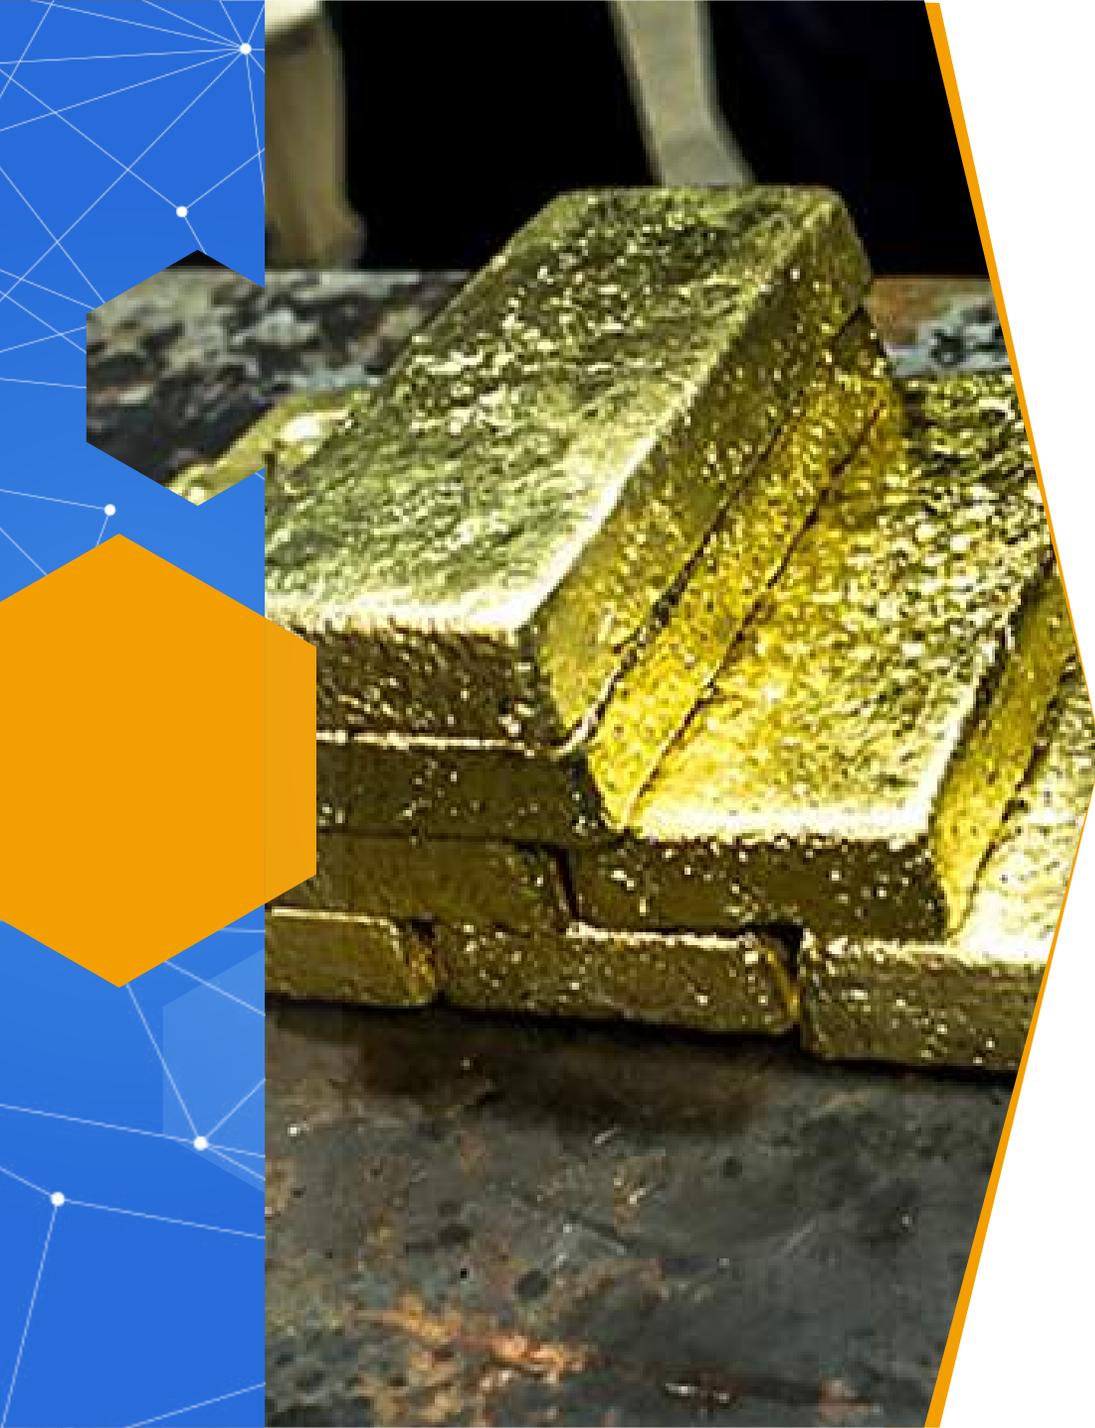

It is almost always a coarse-grained mineral, ideal for its low environmental impact and safety in processing, as it does not require the use of cyanide or mercury or for extraction, especially for alluvial gold or for purification, very important aspects for Coipa's way of doing business.

South Sudan (which is one of the countries in which Coipa operates) is known worldwide for the presence of numerous oil fields, but gold has always been an important resource among the voices of the local economy, which however exploits it (at least for now) in marginal and extemporaneous forms. So much so that the mining activity today involves only about 60 thousand people, while potentially it could involve, for various reasons, about half a million.

With the launch of the mining industry law in 2012, the Republic of South Sudan declared artisanal mining operations illegal, if conducted without ministerial licenses. Furthermore, since then, the Government has promoted investments in mining exploration and in the development of exploitation projects...

...focusing in particular on attracting foreign capital and know-how through a highly facilitative policy, which in turn calls for commitment to infrastructure, social and health projects and compliance with the principles of sustainability.

Maximize the social fallout related to the process, in order to give a boost to the general increasing of the emerging countries' economies and create new market opportunities is the vision of COIPA INTERNATIONAL, inspired by a new entrepreneurial humanism, in which the business' interests, increasing and spreading welfare it's a virtuous loop.

It is an ambitious target, with technical-scientific and operational skills, management of internationally recognized partners.

Copy Capital is part of COIPA Group, to which it belongs COIPA INTERNATIONAL too. The last one works autonomously in the supply chain of minerals (precious metals and fossil sources), from geological exploration to marketing of refined raw materials.

The corporate purpose

- exploration, and mining of oil and mining type;
- refinery activity of extracted minerals;
- research and application, in the scientific and technological field;
- international marketing of precious metals.

Operating within a solid industrial group made up of various specialized companies, COIPA INTERNATIONAL is also involved in the design and construction of large-scale works in the sectors of renewable energy, buildings, industrial and civil infrastructures, with many partnership consultancy Countries, in the world.

Project advantages

The reasons why people invest in gold have remained unchanged throughout history.

Gold was used as a "monetary reserve" because it played the role of money. It is portable and divisible. Its weight easily determines the value of the object, it is indestructible, it is easily recognizable and acceptable as a form of payment. Both in times of crisis and in times of prosperity, gold resists.

Gold has always maintained its value against the rate of inflation over the past 200 years. In other words, the value of gold, or what can be bought in goods or services, has remained stable over time. As we all know, national currencies have experienced considerable fluctuations while gold has remained almost unchanged. It is not directly influenced by the economic policies of each individual country and cannot be repudiated or "frozen" as in the case of some paper goods.

The purpose of the operation is to finance through the issue of shares, projects for the creation and installation of gold and other noble minerals artisanal mines. The Coipa Capital project builds a new community of pioneers committed to participating in equity crowdfunding in order to develop and exploit the business opportunities made available by the mining sector with minimal economic risk.

The objective of the project is to start a collection of capital useful for setting up artisan mining sites that will allow the initial creation of the first mining sites. The initial phase involves the preparation of three artisanal mines in three distinct states. Each mine has six distinct extraction points for a total of eighteen gold extraction points.

The collection will take place with the issue of shares. The latter will be distributed in the first phase of starting the project privately. Subsequently, in public form.

Productivity

Employment and training

COIPA will employ local manpower to the extent possible qualified personnel in all types of artisanal mining operations, technical and specialized staff of COIPA, will organize an extensive training programme suitable to the locals communities in all levels of as may be required in the operations, for which they will be qualified;

Employment and training

Artisanal Gold Mining in Africa Continent it is the basic mineral and rocks production and processing sectors throughout the older civilianization. The artisanal mining accounts for 85% of the total gold produced of the artisanal mining in Africa Continent, for the period 2010- 2018 reaches an enormous quantities of metric tons, means billions of Dollars, and millions of people depend exclusively directly on this activity.

Employment and training

The gold deposit has been mined traditionally by the artisanal miners for several thousand years back to biblical times. The presence of gold and precious stone in Africa has long been known since Biblical time.

Definition of Artisanal Mining according to the mining law of different Countries of the African Continent:

CAPITAL

The Artisanal Mining is defined as non-mechanized mining operation, mainly manual and with mechanical tools. It is an activity worked with passion for the locally Communities but less compensate and in very bad conditions. For that reason

Traditional mining (artisanal scale mining) as an activity practised utilizing local traditional means within the specified area. Other definitions cited elsewhere: labour intensive, use simple tools, poverty-driven activity, of migratory nature. Artisanal scale mining is a gold-focused activity in all African Continent.

COIPA, wants to create a new era of the Artisanal Gold Mining in all African Continent with new technologies and new investment in the socio-economic Overall policy of the Minerals is to boost the minerals production and productivity, diversify production of mineral commodities, promote investment, add value to minerals.

Employment and training

COIPA will employ exclusively local manpower to the extent possible qualified personnel in all types of artisanal mining operations, technical and specialized staff of COIPA, will organize an extensive training programme suitable to the locals communities in all levels of as may be required in the operations, for which they will be qualified;

Equipment

All materials, equipment, plant and other installations of a movable nature erected or placed on the Area of the operations shall remain of property of COIPA.

CAPITAL

Infrastructure

All social infrastructures and facilities that COIPA has realized for the communities shall be donated to the local government authorities, to ensure that said infrastructures and facilities are continuously maintained and utilized by the host and neighboring communities.

Job opportunity

Millions of people are directly dependant on this mining sector can be more than engaged in the artisanal mining activities, through the African Continent

Artisanal mining has proved to be a primary source of employment for job seekers from various parts of the African Continent who are relatively disadvantaged in the labour market. The number of people entering to this sector is significantly increasing.

Therefore, it is a source of job opportunity for a lot of people.

CAPITAL

Vulnerability To communicable diseases:

Artisanal Miners are highly exposed to communicable diseases (e.g. HIV/AIDS, malaria, water borne diseases, cholera).

Role of this sector in poverty reduction esp. In the rural areas:

Traditional, artisanal mining can be an important and measure source of income for increasing the wealth of rural population and providing opportunities for alternative livelihoods; contributing to poverty reduction . it can be the source of foreign currencies that will allow the Population of the Communities in to Prosperities.

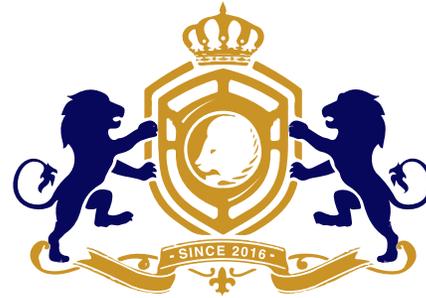

Characteristics and/or challenges in the artisanal mining in africa

Gold has been traditionally mined from placers for many years in disorganized manner in different areas of the country, most of the artisanal miners come from socially and economically marginalized communities.

Most of them are work seasonally returning to their subsistence farms when agricultural work is required in order to supplement their insufficient incomes. Artisanal mining sector could be described as chaotic with little respect for law and order in many mining areas.

Mining concessions

COIPA CAPITAL

THANK YOU
for the attention